Summary: This is what I actually did playing the demo one day

TRAITOR!

Halo-Traitor

Playin' that free demo on the PC. So I'm Master Chief. Sittin' chilln' with my soliders from the covenant or whatever. I'm bored because all they do is stand there they don't follow me into battle like their supposed to.

We're on the first level in combat evolved; we're at the place where the ship lands you. My boredom goes to danger as I launch my rocket launcher at a rock sending some men diving out of my way. They scream.

"Get him!!" they arm their rifles and fire at me. My health meter goes down quick as I maneuver quickly to the right shooting my rocket launcher toward them with little success. I finally land a successful blow and three of the soldiers go flying leaving the next two to me.

My health goes up, and then I dart toward them from behind the tree. I kill one with the launcher and then run out of rockets. So my health goes down again as the one shooter still pounds on me. I press tab. Switch my weapon to hand him. 4 shots, he's out. I look at all my soldiers scattered on the ground.

I'm Master Chief. I over powered five of my own men. I march off north to complete my mission, without even a minute of remorse.

End
file.
